

Syllable Transformers

These Syllable Transformers will help your students practice and internalize the key syllable patterns. Students learn to recognize and apply the six syllable types inductively via targeted and limited practice without the CVC, CVVC, etc. jargon.

Rather than a "Here are the rules-with examples-now apply them" approach, students practice many examples of each syllable pattern to achieve mastery of that pattern. The syllable patterns are both caught and taught, by using nonsense syllables in order to force students to analyze the phoneme-grapheme correspondences and not rely on previously orthographically mapped sight words.

Preparation

A doc camera (display projector) is required for this quick oral response drill. Cut out a card from black construction paper with one corner cut off as a rectangle to isolate each word part. Also cut a bottom flap to easily slide the card. Make several of these cards.

Directions

1. Isolate each syllable on the display. Students say the word part, as soon as the syllable is isolated on the display. Use the whole class responses to adjust to the correct pronunciation.
2. Remind students to "Don't shout, but don't whisper. Use your six-inch voices."
3. Don't state the syllable rule until the whole class has mastered the examples.
4. Mark where you leave off to know where to begin instruction the next time.

Directions

Please note that the Syllable Transformers activity follows explicit and systematic phonics and spelling instruction and is designed to help students recognize and apply syllable patterns as they read. Additionally, the Syllable Transformers activity should certainly precede any multi-syllabic syllable division practice.
